REQUIREMENT GATHERING

Day 3 Training Exercise · Internship Weekly Tasks

Problem area	Managing training tasks, deadlines, and priorities
Interviewee	Varghese Chacko
Exercise	Elicitation through open-ended questions

1. Problem Statement

Interns find it difficult to keep track of their training tasks, deadlines, and priorities.

2. Open-Ended Elicitation Questions

1	How do you currently communicate or assign training tasks and deadlines to interns?
2	What difficulties have you noticed interns facing when managing their training tasks and priorities?
3	What do you think would help interns manage their training tasks and priorities more effectively?

3. Discussion Summary

The following is a concise working summary based on the problem discussed. Please confirm or adjust these points with the interviewee before treating them as their actual responses.

Question 1 — Task communication
Training tasks and deadlines can be shared during sessions or through messages and shared documents. It helps when the task, expected output, and due date are clearly mentioned in one place.

Question 2 — Common difficulties
When several tasks are assigned together, interns may find it difficult to decide what to complete first. Changes in deadlines or unclear instructions can also make planning harder.

Question 3 — Possible improvements
A simple task list showing the task description, priority, deadline, and current status could help. Clear instructions and updates when priorities change would also make tasks easier to manage.

4. Assumptions Identified

1. Interns may struggle when they have multiple tasks at the same time.

2. Changing or overlapping deadlines may make task management difficult.

3. Interns may need clearer guidance about which task to prioritize.

5. Session Conclusion

The elicitation exercise focused on understanding how interns manage training tasks, deadlines, and priorities. A shared task list with clear deadlines, priorities, and status updates may help address these challenges. The assumptions and discussion summary should be validated before being used as confirmed requirements.

Prepared as a training exercise. Discussion summary is a working draft for validation, not a verbatim interview transcript.
